

ePrescribing for NHS Hospitals - maximising the opportunities now and in the future

Monday 27 October 2014, One Great George Street London

PROGRAMME

9.30 Registration and coffee

10.00 Opening comments - Aziz Sheikh, The University of Edinburgh

10.15 Keynote 1

Chair: Jamie Coleman

NHS technology strategy: looking ahead – Beverley Bryant, NHS England

10.45 Plenary session 1: Using the technology fund to move forward

Chair: Jamie Coleman

Andrew Clark, Guys and St Thomas

Devesh Patel, Elizabeth Heitz and Charlie Stockman, Croydon University Hospital
Q&A

11.45 Networking and coffee: Posters and supplier stands

12.15 Plenary session 2: Improving safety

Chair: Ann Slee

Understanding routine clinical activities when designing safer ePrescribing systems

Jonathan Back, King's College London

Clinical Decision Support – Hanna Seidling, Heidelberg University

Q&A

13.15 Lunch; posters and supplier stands; corporate roundtables - InterSystems

14.00 Workstreams – part one

Stream 1: Maximising opportunities through involving patients and the public

Jillian Beggs, eP Programme PPI and Stephen Campbell, GM PSTRC University of Manchester

Stream 2: Organisational change and individual change at the level of practise

Jill Schofield, University of York

Stream 3: Big data and data analytics – Will Dixon, Farr Institute and University of Manchester

14.45 Workstreams – part two

Stream 4: Training – Iain Davidson, Royal Cornwall Hospital and Nick Hubbard, Worcestershire Acute Hospitals NHS Trust

Stream 5: Nursing engagement and change management – Jo Dickson, Leeds Teaching Hospitals NHS Trust

Stream 8: Smart pumps followed by electronic prescribing – improving patient safety?

Linda Murdoch and Will Hall, St George's NHS Healthcare Trust

15.30 Keynote 2

Chair: Aziz Sheikh

Leveraging opportunities – Andrew Morris, The University of Edinburgh and Director of Farr Institute

16.00 Closing comments and next steps for the toolkit

Aziz Sheikh, The University of Edinburgh & Jamie Coleman, University of Birmingham

16.15 Depart